CHICAGO'S QUEER IDEA.
AN ALUMINUM PALACE.
SMITH'S MONEY RECIPE.
ONE BRICK, $25,000.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—This is written in the big city at the lake's edge, after half a day's visit to Milwaukee, another big lake city.

Walking along Chicago's lake front, from the Michigan central station to the Blackstone, you are fascinated as usual by the pawing horse on which John A. Logan, perched on his high mound, rides nowhere.

One the edge of the slope a man lies, asleep in the rising sun, a pile of newspapers for his bed. Chicago has signs in parks reading "newly seeded, please keep off." But, if it is not newly seeded, you may walk lie, play or sleep anywhere. They have a strange idea here that the earth, parks included, belongs to the people.

Milwaukee is interesting, because there gangsters shoot you rarely. The eccentric local police have no partnerships with crime. When something is "pulled off," the police have no share in the profits. For that reason, things are not pulled off. Other big cities, tired of being shot up and shot down, might inquire into that.

Secretary Mellon, who was the aluminum king and wore several other American crowns before he gave up business for the treasury, should see, in Milwaukee, the aluminum palace of science, just built by L. R. Smith, head of A. O. Smith Co. The big building is of polished aluminum, without and within, most beautiful in every detail. The furniture is made of aluminum. You touch a big arm chair, and it rolls away, light as a powder puff.

That building, best advertisement the aluminum company ever had, is devoted to pure science. It is a great series of laboratories, in which 600 hundred scientists devote their time and knowledge to problems that affect industry and decide profit or loss. Chemists, physicists, engineers, metallurgists and 17 patent lawyers are included in the "brains department" of A. O. Smith & Co.

L. R. Smith is the industrial genius who made all the great steel companies junk and abandon their pipe mills costing tens of millions and build new ones, in imitation of Smith, after he showed that he could make in a week more miles of pipe than they, all together, could make in a month, and at half the price.

On one shipment of oil to Texas, Smith paid a freight bill of $1,200,000.

Quite a business, and he is about to reveal another surprise for the pipe makers that will please them no more than the original surprise. That is another story.

The automatic mechanism that makes automobile frames in the Smith factory is the most remarkable industrial performance in this country. Row upon row of iron monsters advance, bite holes in metal with sharp teeth, insert rivets and fasten them, then retire, to come forward again and bite the metal in another place.

A thousand devils, at their silly compared with that phalanx of steel-biting dragons. For $750, material and labor included, Smith

COUPLE WED 50 YEARS AGO; FETE STAGED AT PARK

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Stouffer, Washingtonville, Entertain Friends

WASHINGTONVILLE, Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Stouffer, among the oldest residents here, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary Tuesday at Liberty park, near here.

The pavilion, in which the company gathered, was beautifully decorated, a large bell, flowers and crepe paper being used.

250 Call On Couple
About 200 relatives and friends called during the day to offer congratulations.

An interesting feature of the evening's entertainment was a dance by Mrs. Mary King, 80, and a song by Mrs. Elizabeth Lewis. The evening was spent with cards and dancing.

The honorees received many beautiful presents, among them a basket of 50 yellow roses, a gift from the Knights of Pythias and Pythian Sister lodges, of which they are members.

Mr. and Mrs. Stouffer were married Aug. 25, 1881, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Grim, Main st., Washingtonville, by Rev. S. P. Kiefer, pastor of the Lutheran church. They have spent their life on a farm, where they now reside.

Six children were born to them, two daughters and four sons. Those who attended the anniversary, with their families, are: Mrs. Minnie Druner and Joseph Stouffer of Youngstown; J. A. Stouffer, Howard Stouffer and Mrs. Margaret Spear of Washingtonville.

Daughter's Anniversary
The 19th wedding anniversary of the daughter, Mrs. Druner, was also celebrated at this time.

D. M. Stouffer, of Columbus, Ind., a brother of F. L. Stouffer, and the only living person, who attended the wedding 50 years ago, was here for the anniversary celebration.

The table was centered with a large decorated wedding cake, made by their daughter, Mrs. Spear.

Guests at the celebration were from Michigan, Indiana, Cleveland, Plymouth, Lisbon, Youngstown, Canton Niles, Salem, Leetonia, Columbiana, Greenford and Washingtonville.

700 AT INITIAL NIGHT MEET OF GURNEY FRIENDS

"Day of Revivals Not Past," Declares California Minister

REV. JOSEPH SMITH DELIVERS SERMON

"Holiness Only Adequate Remedy for Times," Is Speaker's View

DAMASCUS, Aug. 26.—Rev. Joseph H. Smith of Redlands, Calif., who preached Tuesday evening at the first gospel service of Ohio yearly meeting of Gurney Friends, which opened its 118th session here yesterday morning, declared "that the day of revivals is not past."

Approximately 700 persons attended last night's meeting.

His admonition to the hundreds of church members in attendance at this service was "to lay hold of God for at least 50 revivals in Ohio yearly meeting."

"These are the twilight times leading toward the midnight hour before the return of Jesus Christ," Rev. Smith said. "Holiness is the only adequate readiness for the times in which we have entered."

The speaker stated.

Rev. Smith discussed the expression "these times" in their significance as to the prophecy of the return of Jesus Christ.

Should Be Ready
"A Christian is not ready for the coming of Jesus Christ if he is not ready for the present times," according to Rev. Smith.

"Lukewarmness of soul is worst than freedom to death. 'Churchianity' is taking on more ceremonialism. The Holy Ghost is the only conservator of orthodoxy. A great revival of holiness is our only hope. Pray and labor for a revival of holiness in your own hearts. If we are ready to live, we are ready to die."

Rev. Smith expressed the opinion that without the fullness of the Holy Ghost no man can preach fearlessly the whole gospel.

"Holiness is the only readiness for the marriage supper of the Lamb," Rev. Smith said.

Arthur Emery of Alliance discussed "Can a Business Man be a Christian" at the meeting of Christian Endeavorers this morning.

Mrs. Elsie Matti, returned missionary from China, spoke at the children's meeting at 10 a. m. today.

This afternoon, epistles from other yearly meetings were to be read, as well as reports of the committee.

Wellsville Girl Drowns in Creek

WELLSVILLE, O., Aug. 26.—Miss Mary Belle Baker, 15, daughter of Mrs. C. M. Richards of Henry ave., was drowned shortly after 1 p. m. Tuesday while swimming in Yellow creek. Her body was recovered when Ila Householder who had accompanied the Baker girl bathing, summoned passing motorists. L. H. Sprouse and Chalmers Nicholson, both of Wellsville, dived in the creek and recovered the body. They resorted to artificial respiration until a resuscitator arrived. The machine was used on the victim for more than an hour before hope was abandoned.

The Householder girl told authorities that Miss Baker had gone into water beyond her depth. Her companion, unable to swim, watched her sink.

The body was removed to the McLean funeral parlors here.

Noblest Mother

Selected as Cincinnati's "noblest mother," Mrs. Charles L. Ungruhe, Jr., true to her noble character could not understand why she had been selected for the honor. Mrs. Ungruhe thinks she did only her duty in raising two families. Her mother died sixteen years ago, leaving twelve children younger than the "noblest mother." She raised all as well as her own three.

SEEK JUVENILE BAND IN GROUP OF BURGLARIES

Police Redouble Efforts; Merchandise Taken At Filling Station

Burglars late Tuesday night broke into the Pennzoil gasoline filling station, South Lincoln ave., looting the place of a quantity of merchandise, Police Chief T. W. Thompson reported today.

Entrance was effected through a side window which was broken by the thieves. Candy and other articles were taken.

Suspect Juveniles
It was the sixth burglary in Salem in less than a week and as a result police today were redoubling efforts to round up a group of juveniles they believe is responsible for the crimes. Several suspects have been questioned but all were released, Thompson said.

The series of crimes began last Thursday with the robbery of the safe in The Chattel Mortgage company office, where burglars obtained jewelry valued by Thomas Cadwallader, secretary-treasurer of the concern, at $1293 and $550 in cash. An attempt Friday to break into the safe of The Church Budget Envelope company, South Elsworth ave., failed.

Saturday afternoon real estate offices of H. N. Loop and Harry Chappell, East State st., were entered. A small amount of money was obtained from Loop's safe while a pair of cuff links was taken from Chappell's office. Both were entered in broad daylight.

Raid Apartment
The apartment of Edward J. Bailey, East State st., was ransacked by thieves late Monday afternoon. Four dollars in cash and two sets of beads owned by Mrs. Bailey, were stolen from a drawer in a dresser while Mrs. Bailey was out making daily purchases of groceries between 3 and 4 p. m.

The Loop and Chappell realty offices and Bailey's apartments are all located in the State theater building, at 478 East State st.

SACHSENS PLAN NATIONAL MEET HERE SEPT. 6-7

1,000 Delegates and Visitors Expected To Throng City

SINGING GROUPS PLAN PROGRAMS

Ohio, Pennsylvania Societies In Concert On Opening Day

More than a thousand persons, delegates from organizations affiliated with the Transylvanian-Sachsen Singing Alliance of North America, are expected to gather in Salem Sunday and Monday, September 6-7, for the annual national convention which will bring singing societies of Ohio and nearby states here.

Eight singing societies from four Ohio and two Pennsylvania cities will participate in a gala concert which will be given as the feature of the opening day of the convention. The concert is scheduled at the high school auditorium at 7:30 p. m. Sunday, Sept. 6.

George Thiess Chairman
The participating singers will come from Canton, Youngstown, Lorain, New Castle, Pa., Monaca, Pa. and Salem. Approximately 300 vocalists will be represented in the eight groups. George Thiess of Salem is general chairman of the convention with Jacob Faust of Canton directing the singing.

Mayor J. M. Davidson will give the address of welcome to visiting delegates at the concert. Adolph Wilsinger of Cleveland, grand president of the Transylvanian-Sachsen alliance, and other visiting officials will speak. Delegates will be present from Detroit, Mich., Erie, New Castle, Homestead, Massillon, Youngstown, Lorain, Alliance, Canton and other cities.

It is believed by officials in charge to be the largest affair of its kind held in the United States. It is the second time in four years that Salem has been selected as the site of a national Transylvanian convention, the organization having held its annual gathering here for business sessions in 1928.

Dramas Planned
Featuring the second day program will be a series of dramas which will be presented by Sachsen junior organizations at the Transylvanian children's home, Newgarden rd. An outdoor concert will also be given by each of the visiting singing societies.

The program for the affair is now being arranged by committees who held a meeting Tuesday night at the Salem Transylvanian hall, Railroad st.

Link Slaying With Rum Feud
CANTON, O., Aug. 26.—Stark county authorities today were attempting to link the mysterious slaying of Joe Cotelli, 46, Canton, with a feud between rival rum running gangs operating between Pittsburgh and Cleveland.

Cotelli, his head bashed in and a clothing drawn tightly about the neck, was found in a thicket near the exclusive Congress Lake Country club late yesterday by a farmer hunting elderberries.

Killed By Blow
Coroner T. C. McQuate said that his investigation indicated the man had been dragged to death but a post mortem later revealed that the man had been killed by a blow over the back of the head which crushed the skull.

The man had no police record un-

NEW COALITION GROUP GOES TO WORK ON BUDGET

Labor Party In MacDonald Bailiwick Bans Him From Ranks

LONDON, Aug. 26.—Great Britain's second labor government officially stepped out of office today and a short time later the coalition cabinet got down to work in an attempt to balance the empire's budget.

The new government, headed by J. Ramsay MacDonald, Labor premier, had hardly taken the reins when the Labor party in Mr. MacDonald's home bailiwick in London adopted a resolution banning him from the party.

Criticizes "Disloyalty"
In adopting the resolution banning Mr. MacDonald, the Hemsford division of the party criticized the premier for his "disloyalty" to the Labor party and his open flouting of party discipline in joining the anti-Socialists government.

Mr. MacDonald apparently anticipated some such move on the eve of the Labor party meeting scheduled for Friday, and forwarded to all labor members of parliament a personal message explaining his recent course of action.

"The financial crisis was approaching rapidly," he wrote. "It had become a matter of hours and we had to act immediately. The Labor government strove hard to agree about this issue so that it might continue its work in other fields, but it failed and had to face the consequences."

"If our financial stability is endangered and a ruin is made on our financial resources, the consequences would be too terrible to envision. This makes temporary retrenchment inevitable and imposes some amount of common sacrifice."

Suspend Judgment, Appeal
He expressed regret that after a lifetime of work in the labor movement he and some of his colleagues had to decide in the interests of the country on a course which might embarrass the party for the time being. He appealed to Labor members to suspend judgment until parliament assemblies and the events of the past few days may be seen in panorama.

"I have changed none of my beliefs and none of my ideals," he said. "It is true that I have no Labor credentials for what I am doing, although I am certain that in the interests of the working classes I ought to have them. I have the credentials to even higher authority. My credentials are those of national duty as I conceive it and I obey them irrespective of the consequences."

The five independent institutes in the county, each have one state speaker, and will fill in their programs with home talent.

Lewis In Race For Constable Place

George Lewis, Jr. Perry township constable, today announced that he will be a candidate for reelection to the township post at the general election Tuesday, November 3.

Lewis filed his petition of candidacy with the county board of elections in East Liverpool today. He is the second candidate to file for a constable post, Chalmers M. Miller having forwarded his petition to the county board last week.

Lewis, former member of the United States marines, has been serving as constable for more than a year, being appointed by the township board of trustees to fill the unexpired term of Martin McGregor.

He is the son of Fire Captain and Mrs. George Lewis, Woodland ave.

FOUNDRI HEAD'S WIFE IS VICTIM; DRIVER IS HURT

Mrs. Charles McLean, 41, wife of Charles McLean, assistant works manager of the American Steel Foundry, Alliance, died shortly after being removed from the wreckage. Mrs. James A. Garman, 45, driver of the automobile, is in Alliance City hospital in a serious condition suffering from a probable fractured skull and other injuries.

Three Cars in Train
The women were driving south on South Seneca st and apparently failed to observe the approaching train, bound southwest to the city's industrial section. The train consisted of three loaded freight cars.

The first car struck the automobile, the machine being knocked from the tracks after which it continued southward on Seneca st. until it crashed into a tree and was demolished.

Mrs. McLean sustained internal injuries, probable fractured skull and other injuries. She died while being taken to the Alliance hospital.

Mrs. Garman was cut about the face and head, sustained body bruises and possibly a fractured skull. Hospital attaches declared her condition serious at noon today.

Mrs. McLean, widely known in Alliance, lives at 235 South Arch ave. Mrs. Garman resides at 318 East 4th st.

Full police force for Mrs. McLean will be on duty Friday afternoon at the home.

BLANCHESTER, O., Aug. 26.—Driving their automobile onto the tracks of the path of a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train here last night, five persons were killed instantly when their car was struck and demolished.

The dead, all residents of Blanchester: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leakey and their small son.

Mrs. Tom White, 53. Leta White, 14, a daughter of Mrs. White.

Witnesses said the crossing watchman frantically attempted to warn them of the approaching train, waving a red lantern and shouting at the top of his voice. The crossing, in the center of Blanchester, commanded a clear view of the tracks.

Three small daughters of Leakey, 35, a paperhanger, were orphaned by the accident.

Music On Program For Rotary Club

Martha and Samuel Krauss, talented Salem musicians, daughter and son of Councilman and Mrs. Samuel Krauss, Euclid st., entertained members of the Rotary club at their weekly meeting Tuesday.

Cornet and piano duet selections were presented. The meeting was in charge of W. J. Springer.

Activities of the club's crippled children's committee were reported by AU's L. P. Metzger, chairman.

Dynamite Is Found

TOLEDO, O., Aug. 26.—Mystery surrounded the ownership of six boxes of dynamite found buried in the haymow at the farm of Robert Gerling at Curtice.

Police believed the explosive may have been stolen from a quarry preparatory to using it for burglaries.

Not Guilty

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 26.—See where the Japanese jury returned a verdict of "not guilty" against Lindy; they not only freed him but complimented him for finding some islands that they didn't know they had themselves.

Funny how they guard those forts and I don't reckon there is a fort in the world that all other nations don't know more about it than the one that owns it.

The labor government of England fell because it wanted to cut the salaries of those that wasn't laboring. Now they get a coalition government, that's one they have when there is nothing left to divide up.

Injuries Are Fatal

CINCINNATI, O., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Bertha Plumley, 37, is dead of injuries received in an automobile accident a week ago.

MEADOWLARK, BABY KILLERS

Let's go back for a moment to storybook days and the tale of the meadowlark and the farmer.

The field was ripe and the baby Meadowlark, venturing a little way from home, came upon the farmer viewing his crop. "My neighbors will be here tomorrow to cut the wheat," he said to his son and the little Meadowlark ran home to the nest in great alarm but the mother said: "let us wait." Tomorrow came but no harvesters.

Then the birdling heard the farmer say to his son, "tomorrow our relatives will come and cut the wheat." The frightened bird ran home again and told the mother what he had heard and again she said calmly, "let us wait."
Tomorrow came again but no harvesters and that evening the farmer again visited the field. "Tomorrow," he said to his sons, "we will arise early and bring our scythes and harvest the wheat ourselves." and then the little bird ran home and told his mother she said,
"tonight we leave the field for tomorrow the wheat will be cut."

It's a long jump from Meadowlarks to racketeers but there is still truth in the lesson that when people undertake a job themselves it is likely to be accomplished and it looks as though the American people are ready to take up the job of mowing down the gangster.

When 20,000 enraged citizens packed New York's Madison Square garden and 30,000 more seek admission after the hall is filled, all demanding direct action against the racketeer, it is time for the rats to hunt their holes.

Dark days appeared ahead of the gangster when he was stripped of the glamor by which he had been fetters. For a long time he was surrounded by a false air of romance and too often envisioned as a dashing freebooter who took life as it came and died with a devil-may-care nonchalance.

Truth has stripped off this cloak of dramatic appeal and has revealed the gangster as a sordid, furtive criminal. It took the murder of babies to awaken the country to his true nature but this has been accomplished.

When the citizenship of the country becomes aroused as is that of New York City, there is promise that good will be accomplished.

The last few weeks have had several interesting instances of men ranging from places high in public life to those in obscure police jobs who have done good work in fighting the racketeer. Several public enemies who enjoyed long immunity from the law have felt its power.
When these honest officials have behind them the aggressive determination of the public to wipe out these vermin, something will be accomplished.

It looks as though this were the time for the gangster, the "bootleg king," the hoodlum and the baby killer to move out and keep running for when 50,000 citizens demand his extermination, the law will find the means to carry the mandate into effect.

Other cities will do well to follow New York's example. Such an express of the public demand for permanent removal of the racketeer will stiffen the backbone of police departments and arouse them to realization that the people know the gangster in his real character and demand he be eradicated.

FINISH YOUR EDUCATION

Men and women of future years may look back on the depression of 1930-31 and give it credit for the prosperity they enjoy.

Statistics prove that education is worth all that it costs in time and money. Unemployment has given tremendous impetus to education of boys and girls of the higher teens ages. Because they cannot get jobs

they are getting an education which will pay big dividends in the years to come.

Only a few years ago educators were discussing the practicability of assorting the youth of high school age, retaining those of special promise for further education and sending the others out into employment. Now the conditions are reversed and all are being urged to continue their schooling.

Salem's school authorities are preparing for a record enrollment
this year.

High school enrollment shows an unprecedented proportion of boys and girls who expect to continue their schooling. It is a good thing.
Figures show that the youth with a high school education gets a better job generally, than the one not so equipped and that, on the average, he earns a higher salary.

In time of depression it is the uneducated and untrained worker who is laid off first.

Every unemployed boy or girl who has not finished high school should be back in classes this year.
Education will pay big dividends in the long run and the present unemployment will be reflected in future years by the better preparation of men and women who take advantage of the opportunity to complete their schooling.

Even if a boy or girl has been out of school for a year it is a good idea to come back and finish the high school course while waiting for employment to return to normal.

The dollars and cents rule shows that it is more profitable to continue in school than to wait idly for a job to appear even though we fail to take into reckoning the larger vision and more complete experience of living which education offers.

What Others Say

MR. HOOVER ACTS

In a single day's news we have at least four different proposals for meeting the unemployment problem in the coming winter. Mr.

Green and the American Federation of Labor demand a "conference of employers and labor" to make work.
They fail to explain how the mere act of bringing industrial and labor leaders together in one place is to inspire them with more magical powers or any more brilliant solutions than they have separately displayed up to the present.

Governor Pinchot demands an extra session—not to make work, but to pass out federal relief. He fails to explain how the needy this winter can be relieved as efficiently by a politics-ridden congress and a federal bureaucracy as by the local and state agencies, both public and private, which met the burden last winter.

Representative Patman, of Texas,
also wants a special session—not exactly to relieve the needy, it seems, but to "revive purchasing power." Again there is a lamentation in the program. The manner in which to revive purchasing power is a mystery as yet unsolved by an individual congressman, and Mrs.
Patman neglects to show how they will be collectively any wiser. In-cautiously, however, he does drop a hint as to what will actually happen. He announces that he will himself re-introduce his bill for full payment of the adjusted compensation certificates. Lending out dollars to the most vocal and best-organized minorities may build congressional fences, but it is about as crude, as wasteful and as useless a method of meeting the unemployment problem as could be imagined.

There is, however, a fourth proposal. Mr. Hoover summons Mr.
Walter S. Gifford and makes him what amounts to a one-man committee for organizing and co-ordinating all existing agencies of relief to the single end of relieving those who may require aid. We do not think that Mr. Gifford will produce magical results; we do not even suppose that his efforts will reach every case of suffering or want which the winter may produce. But when an emergency appears it does seem to us that the best and most practical way of meeting it is to put a competent man to work with the tools that we already have.

When a farm house catches fire,
those who really want to save it do not begin by trying to pass a bond issue through the legislature for the laying of fire mains. They organize a bucket brigade, and they get results. What is required today is not the deliberative methods of congress; it is the flexibility and originality of individual effort. It is really difficult to understand how any one with any sense of perspective can believe seriously that an extra session of congress will be of any actual assistance in the kind of difficulties which now surround us.
No one knows how to cure the depression—not even congress. But many people do know how to meet the pressing needs of actual relief and have met them time and again.
Agencies, traditions, habits of mind all exist for dealing with them. To begin by knocking down all the established emergency machinery is a poor way of coping with an emergency.—New York Herald Tribune.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Debonaire

Michael Arlen, flashing so vividly on the literary horizon, is reported back-tracking as suddenly into the obscurity from whence he came.
The roar of the crowd falls on deaf ears. Instead of the literary lion he is becoming the literary hermit.

In the beginning he was an unknown young Armenian with an un-pronounceable name who pipped
like a sky rocket out of the nowhere. Overnight he became the dapper dandy of Mayfair, gazing at the dazzling social whirl of London through rose colored glasses.

More than any writer of his time he created something new—something fascinatingly bizarre. His first novels became immediately best sellers. Chesterton, Belloc and Bennett hailed him. An American cigar, a Paris cocktail and an Italian hat were named for him. Along the Reviera he was the white-haired boy.

He came to New York while two of his plays were running simultaneously and successfully on Broadway. He moved on to Hollywood where he was feted by the movie crowd. From there he went back to London, then joined the social set at St. Moritz and married a beautiful Grecian princess.

In a brief space he flushed out most of the honors that come to a writing man in the course of a life time. But on his last visit here Arlen had changed. While his future had somewhat spent itself in America he was still the target of many luncheon and dinner invitations.

But shied away from all. Most of his short stay he kept to his hotel room, meeting old friends quietly.
He was not seen at first nights. His flash clothes had softened to sombre hues—mostly plain black. He seemed fed up with frothy sophisticated life.

Those who know say he believes he has greater talents than his first efforts revealed. He wants to take time and will spend three years preparing his next novel. He has the income from a carefully invested quarter of a million to indulge this leisure. And lives quietly at Antibes.

For some reason I am ill at ease
among people who wear flannels and blazers and yesterday motoring on Long Island I stooped in a feigned effort to lace my shoe while passing a tatty-ho party. H. N.
Swanson's inferiority complex is taken for a ride when a group of parked riders gallop past in the dark. Nothing makes him feel so much the groveling worm.

No square in New York has the summer mellowness of Mayor Walker's residential section St.
Luke's Place. Tucked out of the beaten path it luxuriates in a sort of civic decay. There are no ornate apartment houses but instead three and four storied dwelling houses with iron fences, small plots of grass, chirping birds and brick ground. Usually the center is a playground, usually playfully unleashed and unmuzzled dogs. At night many windows glow with hanging oil lamps.

Around the corner from the Mayor's, Greenwich Village frolics.
It has taken on a renewed spurt of hop-de-do lately. The Nut Club, with billious colored stucco front and electric sign letters crazily banging, is at the moment the Village rendevous. Hard by is the trian-gled tea room of Ann Sutherland with tiny green awnings, roof-seating perhaps 20. A glorified mirror owl lunch wagon, with a poetical banjoist, bids for trade in the area.

Village food and entertainment are cheap and fit in with the present day purses, hence many haunts, so long facing bankruptcy, are now enjoying a puff of prosperity.

I notice, too, that The Black Cat is carrying on in the Village. It is a remembered spot during my first year in New York. At an adjoining table one night I was introduced to a man later to figure surprisingly in world history—Leon Trotsky.
And it hived such characters as Tiny Tim and his tray of soul, candy, Sonia, the beautiful cigarette girl from Minsk, and the troubador,
Bobby Edwards, and his cigar box ukulele.

Someone on the phone—Don Clarke, I think—mentioned casually that they heard the biggest seasonal dress bid was Geraldine Far-rar's for $100,000. Why it should this spice me later in dropping in at a shirtmaker's to order six shirts, exactly is a little deep. But I can account for it in no other way.

Flower of Thorns

By Marie Conway Oemler

SYNOPSIS

Sally Rutherford, the last of a proud old southern family, following the ruin and suicide of her grandfather, determines to keep the heavily mortgaged Oakleigh plantation for her grandmother. She opens a hot dog stand on the Dixie highway. The estate of the Winsteads, of carpetbagging stock, adds to the Oakleigh mortgage. His only son, Sam, is a great help to Sally, although she doesn't know his real identity until the stand is successfully started. Sally falls in love with Lowndes Jennings and believes herself to be his promised wife. Sam forces Lowndes to admit, in front of Sally, that he is engaged to the wealthy Gertrude Reinert. Sam asks Sally to marry him, although he knows she doesn't love him.

INSTALLMENT 26

A PROMISE TO MARRY
Sam was there, at his desk. Sally heard his voice over the wire—a firm, clear, polite business voice.
"Mr. Sam Winstead? Miss Rutherford speaking?"
"Yes, Miss Rutherford?" It wasn't a business voice now.
"You might stop by that way."

"Thank you," said he. "I'll be over at once."

Within ten minutes she saw him standing in her door—the tall young man in khaki, like a uniform.
"You said I was to consider—"

"What you said to me last night—"

"very carefully," Sally said presently.

"You yourself have had a whole night to consider it. Before I say anything, will you please tell me if—if you are still of the same mind?"

"You may believe I meant exactly what I said, that I was, and am, in earnest in my life. I was never more earnest in my life. I don't need a night—"

"or a year—"

"or a lifetime—"

"to make me sure. I am too sure of myself that I repeat the offer. And again I ask you to consider it carefully."

"You are quite sure that you mean it now as you meant it last night, when you offered to give me your name?"

"I am asking you to be my wife."

"I accept," said she gallantly.

"But you understand that I do not love you as I should? I—I can't."

"That I understand, Sally," said he directly. "But I shall be between you and the world. You will no longer be subject to—the things that befall defenseless girls."

"You mean that if I'd still been a wealthy girl I shouldn't have been—"

"—jilted? No, I don't think I should. But perhaps I might have been married to a man capable of such behavior, a man unworthy of respect. At least I've been spared that! But I beg you to believe that my decision isn't made solely on account of Lowndes. It is because of Grandmamma, because of Oakleigh. And she told him what had happened last night."

He listened without interruption. "I could not, I would not have asked you—if you didn't happen to—to matter to me personally," he said after a pause. "But you do. You outweigh all other considerations. He thought deeply for a moment. "I care enough for you, Sally, to point out yet another way. A probable way, for the time being."

"Another way?" she stared at him.

"Rent Oakleigh, if you wish, during your grandmother's lifetime. That, at least, will leave you free," he suggested.

"It would have to go, sooner or later."

"The interest could be—ah—reduced," he said after a pause. "The place might have to be sold eventually."

But she shook her head positively. "No."

"You love the place so much, Sally?"

"Grandpapa brought Grandmamma there a bride. He had been born there. His father was born there. My father was born there, in the same room Grandmamma is in to-day. I too, was born there. It is my childhood there. It is—it is home. The Rutherford. All of us. If it goes—we all go with it. I lose them all. I would not want to live. She spread out her hands.

He looked at her for a long time without speaking. Then he said, in a slightly hoarse voice:

"Are you willing to—to sacrifice yourself for Oakleigh?"

"Am I worth that much?" said she, with a faint smile.

Without waiting for an answer, she asked a more pertinent question:

"Did you know I was at that house last night?"

"No. But I was not surprised when I saw you there. Only angry."

"I accept," said she, gallantly.

nings, I think. I expect Mrs. Rutherford and Oakleigh to become my peculiarly welcome care, since they lie so close to your heart. Yes, Sally, I still desire you to marry me."

"Very well, Mr. Winstead. I will marry you," she heard herself saying.

"I do not think you will regret it, Sally. I will try to make you happy. I swear it. You will never regret trusting yourself—and your grandmother—and Oakleigh—into my hands."

"I—I feel that. Honestly, Mr. Winstead, I feel that," said she sincerely. "I know you are generous. I believe you are kind. Would you—would you like the announcement made at once, please?"

"I think it would be better. By the way, you'd better begin to call me Sam."

"If you like, Sam, then," said she submissively. Well, why not? Wasn't she going to marry him? "Could you come this afternoon and meet Grandmamma? The announcement will have to come from her, you see."

"Will 5 o'clock do?"

"Come at 5, then. And Mr. Winstead—Sam—I will try to—to play fair. To keep my part of the bargain," she told him.

Sally had her lunch in the shop as usual, and afterward she walked home through the mile long oak avenue.

She went upstairs to her own room and made the necessary changes in her toilette, for Grandmamma's benefit. This afternoon she put on one of last year's frocks, yellow crepe de chine. It lent her pale skin a pearly tinge. Her appearance did not betray her inward conflict she appeared composed, the mistress of her emotions; and she felt satisfied that her composure would not desert her. Braced thus, she went in to break her astonishing news to her grandmother.

"Dear Grandmamma, I've got a piece of news for you," she said hesitatingly. "I'm engaged, Grandmamma, to Mr. Winstead."

"Engaged! To Mr. Winstead!" Grandmamma turned an astounded face.

"Yes, dear, Mr. Sam Winstead. And he wants it to be soon."

"But, Sally—My dear—Why Sally I don't know the young man! You—you've never mentioned him to me—and now you tell me you're engaged!"

"It is rather sudden," admitted Sally. "But I've promised to marry Mr. Winstead, darling. And he wants it to be soon. And he's coming to see you about it this afternoon."

"Tell me all about it, Sally," cried the old lady, excitedly.

"There isn't much to tell, really, darling. I have known . . . Sam . . . ever since I came home from school, dear. And I've promised to marry him. He is . . . I mean everybody likes him and speaks well of him, Grandmamma. He is coming to see you this afternoon, and you can judge for yourself. I feel sure you'll like him."

"Is he good looking?"

"I think so, darling."

"Naturally you do! Do you love him very much, dear Sally?"

"I have promised to marry him, Grandmamma," said Sally.

"And I have no doubt he is very much in love with you, my darling. How could he fail to be?"

"Grandpapa brought Grandmamma there a bride. He had been born there. His father was born there. My father was born there, in the same room Grandmamma is in to-day. I too, was born there. It is my childhood there. It is—it is home. The Rutherford. All of us. If it goes—we all go with it. I lose them all. I would not want to live. She spread out her hands.

He looked at her for a long time without speaking. Then he said, in a slightly hoarse voice:

"Are you willing to—to sacrifice yourself for Oakleigh?"

"Am I worth that much?" said she, with a faint smile.

Without waiting for an answer, she asked a more pertinent question:

"Did you know I was at that house last night?"

"No. But I was not surprised when I saw you there. Only angry."

"Why did you come?"

"I had a few things to say to him."

"But you didn't have a chance to say anything."

He smiled. "I didn't have to. He let you see what he was. He had been engaged to Gertrude Reinert for some time."

"You really came on my account?" she asked surprisedly.

"I might have gone on her's. But I hardly think I should have found it necessary," he said grimly.

"You meant to expose him?"

"But not to Miss Reinert," he told her. "I rather like the Reinerts, myself, and the girl is a fine girl, but she can take care of herself. And of her precious fiancé, too. She wants him: why shouldn't she have him?"

"I thought I wanted him," said Sally, in a low voice. "And you really want to marry me, after all? When you know about—"

HEALTH

By Dr. Royal S. Copeland,
New York City

"EYE STRAIN"

"Eye-strain" is a frequently used expression. As a matter of fact it is usually nothing more or less than muscular weakness, the direct result of excessive strain.

DO CODEL AND

Movements of the eyeball are controlled by groups of muscles. Like all the other muscles of the body, these will weaken if not properly nourished and given the proper care. When one muscle of the eye weakens, more work is thrown on the other muscles.

This unexpected and unprepared for increase in work that a certain muscle must do, is likely to result in discomfort. There may be severe pain.

Persons engaged in occupations requiring excessive use of the eyes frequently complain of eyestrain. This is particularly true of stenographers, typists, moving picture operators, dressmakers, manicurists and librarians.

Where the weakness is a temporary affair and has resulted only from excessive use of the eyes, the condition may be corrected by rest and eye exercises. When these simple measures do not cause the symptoms to disappear, it is advisable that proper glasses be prescribed. Glasses should always be worn if there is a real defect in vision.

It happens often, however, that the vision is perfect, yet there is muscular weakness. In these cases, glasses are prescribed, simple prisms perhaps, that serve to strengthen the muscles of the eye.

"Your eyes are as clear as Rupert's—and if you've ever seen Col. Rutherford, you'll know he's got the clearest eyes in the world."

She gave Sam's hand a gentle pressure. The old lady had taken an instant liking to him, and her heart felt at peace.

Reading in a glaring light is harmful. It is always best to read under a subdued, soft light. Be sensible about it and if your eyes tire easily, never read excessively. Years ago there were many eye defects among school children. I am glad to say that the percentage of these cases has been markedly reduced in the past ten years. This change is due to the modern improvement in our schools as regards hygienic and lighting facilities.

Glasses that have not been prescribed by a competent person should never be worn. Buying glasses off the counter, is a practice that has decreased, but there is too much of a tendency to get spectacles this way. Instead of improving the vision of the eyes, such glasses may actually harm the eyesight.

Yawns at Picture Debut

Although only two weeks old, Mary Esther Webb, "pride and joy" of Mr. and Mrs. George Webb (Eather Ralston to you), seems perfectly blasé and extremely nonchalant as she makes her debut before a Hollywood camera. Miss Ralston admits that it may be a trifle early to determine what vocation her baby daughter will take, but she thinks Mary's chances are pretty good for a film career. But what proud mother wouldn't?

DENIES LORBACH BRIBERY CHARGE

Kniskely Asserts He Was Never In Position To Offer $250,000

(By Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Aug. 26.—Charges made by Senator David Lorbach, chairman of the senate committee investigating highway matters that a former state highway engineer allegedly offered him money to "retire" from the investigation, will be aired before a special meeting of the committee next Tuesday at Columbus.

Senator Lorbach, Cincinnati Democrat, yesterday revealed the name of the man who approached him as Clyde J. Kniskely, until last January a highway department engineer, but now an employee of the state tax commission.

Kniskely, who flatly denied the senator's charge, was alleged by Senator Lorbach to have stated that $250,000 was available if further investigation of the highway department was forestalled.

Disatisfied With Probe. Following Senator Lorbach's revelation came statements from two committee members, both Republicans, intimating dissatisfaction with the investigation.

Senator Laurence Norton, Cleveland Republican, said that it "seems significant that the story of the bribe was sprung at the time the chairman himself was under fire because of the way he was conducting the investigation. It looks like a smoke screen to me."

Senator Earl Lewis, St. Clairsville Republican, said he "lost faith in the investigation last week."

Senator Lewis charged Lorbach with making a "one-man probe of the investigation," said he had heard "hints" the probe was started "for reasons of political ambitions" and finished by declaring he would quit "if it is true that political ambitions are at the bottom of it."

Senator Lorbach, replying to the congressional seat of the late Speaker Nicholas Longworth, replied he had no political ambitions when the committee was organized last March.

At the last meeting of the committee on August 19, which was marked by unharmonious relations between the chairman and other members, Senator William Greenlun (D), Cleveland, remarked after an argument with a committee investigator that they did not know what the investigation was all about.

Kniskely's Statement. Kniskely, who retired from the highway department when Governor White took office, said in a statement replying to Lorbach's accusation: "I have heard rumors that such an offer was made, but I do not know for a certainty that it was made to Senator Lorbach. Further, the sum was reported at the time

Old-Time Styles Again Popular

PARIS, Aug. 26.—With the silhouettes of the good old days of Queen Victoria, Empress Eugenie and Madame Bonaparte casting shadows at all the dressmakers' collections in Paris, one is wondering which of them will have the upper hand this winter.

One of the prominent French designers is presenting a new line that is far from the fads of yore, a silhouette perfectly adapted to modern life. He has done away with all useless trimming and illogical ornaments, stressing the purity of line and perfect plastic beauty.

Many of Mirande's models, on the other hand, are inspired by the Directoire period. One sees sleeves set in puffs on velvet gowns. Tiny puffs on a black velvet dress are accompanied by the white lace yoke placed quite square at the neckline. Still another is making a model-to-the-figure gown, giving a new silhouette striped of all unnecessary details, extremely neat and lengthening in line. Evening gowns show this silhouette to perfection, a line that has the slimmers of a perfect youthful body from shoulders to hem and at the same time, is flowing with fullness of the lower skirt.

Hiplines are frequently draped in a new way, but practically every dressmaker has a tendency to keep them close and neat.

Robbery Not Motive

Robbery was not the motive, police say. On the body, which had lain in the thicket three days, was a wallet with several small bills, a watch worth $125, one ring worth $100 and two other less expensive rings. On the man's shirt was the laundry mark "C. T." Engraved on one ring were the initials "A. D." On his wallet were the initials "J. A. O."

WEST CHESTER, PA.—The local fire department has asked all citizens to give their old brooms to the volunteer fire company. The request was made by George J. Moses, borough fire chief, who said they were used for fighting grass and weed fires.

Bustles Popular in Paris

Winter Styles on Display

PARIS, Aug. 26.—Bustles are getting busy to make their appearance on many of the new winter models. But of course they aren't the bustling bustles of great-grandmother's day, the hump in the middle of the back over which cascaded yards and yards of material.

The 1932 bustles are mostly only bustle effects, made by draping up double and even triple-shaped volants in the center, by clever arrangements of flounces and frills and by large flat bustle-like bows.

Josette Ravet makes a modern dress on the bustle lines by introducing a tied sash which encircles the low hip-line and ties in the center-back.

Agnes Drecoll features the triple basque beginning at the waist, back or above it, making a new slope backward and downward which is accentuated by the curve. Francis makes no actual bustles but variants in the form of basques, puffed tunics. London Trades shows a charming evening dress in white crepe remain with the bodice with pieces from each side knotted into an amusing buckle effect at bolero height.

An apricot satin gown has the bustle effect in bunches of ribbon at the back and a bouquet of roses in the center.

Ardanse is not showing the bustle, but looped pockets varying from normal size to huge stiffened paniers upside down.

Cupid Takes a Hand

The good, old sport of holding hands is apparently as satisfying to film folk as more ordinary souls. Constance Bennett, blonde charmer of the movies, is shown in this exclusive shot joined with the Marquis De La Falais, husband of Gloria Swanson, by Cupid's hand-clasp while both intently watch the Davis Cup finals played between France and England at Roland Garros Stadium, near Paris. Although the Marquis is not yet fully divorced from Miss Swanson, it is widely rumored that he and Connie will wed when the final decree is granted.

J. M. Ray, the father of Orvy Ray, residing near Mechanistown in Carroll county, with a Columbiana county property owner signed a bond for his son.

BRUSSE, GRANGER LEAD AIR DERBY

Santa Monica Aviatix, Glendale Flier Head Pilots In Race

(By Associated Press)
EL PASO, TEXAS, Aug. 26.—Surviving entrants in the national air derby from Santa Monica, Calif., to Cleveland struggled for additional points today with the identity of the pace leader still undetermined officially.

Standings at El Paso, the fifth control point, however, placed Lee Brusse of Glendale, Calif., at the head of the men's division and Clema Granger of Santa Monica as leader of the women.

With three planes eliminated on the flight from Tucson, Ariz., to this city yesterday, officials announced the results this morning after hours of work with handicap statistics. Figures for the general handicap, in which both men and women are entered, were not revealed.

The plane of Earl Rowland of Wichita, Kas., was demolished by a crash in a canyon east of Douglas, Ariz.

Motor trouble led Barney Rawson of Cleveland to land eight miles west of El Paso. Mrs. Blanche Noyes of Cleveland turned back at Tucson when the magneto on her motor failed. Fifty-two other planes arrived here safely.

Resume Removal of Y. & O. Car Rails

LISBON, Aug. 26.—Removal of rails on the right of way of the former Youngstown & Ohio River Railroad between East Liverpool and Lisbon will be resumed Friday, County Surveyor Lloyd C. Kirk has been informed.

The copper trolley wire has been removed. Rails of this old road at Madison stop and Rock Camp crossing are to be raised and the bed covered with concrete to conform to the grade of the new section of the Lincoln highway at these points.

Harry M. Bates poured the last concrete at the intersection of Apple corners and the Lincoln highway, extending from the St. Clair-Madison township line, Tuesday.

The old railroad crossings will be covered with quick setting concrete, permitting the opening of the new road to traffic approximately 72 hours after the concrete has been poured.

It may follow that this new section of the Lincoln highway will be open to traffic next week, but as berms have not been worked up and guard rails, the use of the highway will be at the risk of the motorist.

"THE COMMON LAW"
At The State
Constance Bennett is supported by a brilliant cast in "The Common Law," her new starring picture. Joel McCrea, the hero of "Born To Love," is again the star's leading man. Lew Cody is his polished man-of-the-world rival and Marjorie Shilling, the brunette beauty whom RKO Pathe recently placed under long term contract, is the other woman.

Other supporting roles are played by Robert Williams, Hedda Hopper, and Paul Ellis.

In this feature Miss Bennett plays a sophisticated girl who has late 1931 ideas about love and marriage and a single standard of morals for men and women. The story has the Paris art colony as a background.

"ARIZONA"
At The Grand

"Arizona," the Columbia drama adapted from the celebrated stage play by Augustus Thomas, now showing at the Grand Theater, is described as a drama which depicts the conflicts of the two powerful emotions of love and honor.

Laura La Plante, who has been consistently cast as a comedienne, plays the role of the perplexed heroine. In portraying this dramatic role she is given an excellent opportunity to prove her versatility.

Many problems confront the heroine "Arizona." The situation becomes more intense when the partner of her past indiscretions appears upon the scene. Torn between the fear of his disclosing anything to her husband, she involves herself, her husband, sister and former lover in a series of incidents that are said to reach great dramatic heights. This tense story is unfolded, for the major part, at an army post in Arizona. Other sequences are shown in fashionable New York haunts and in colorful West Point. John Wayne plays opposite the star.

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.—Dr. J. H. White has spent more than 50 years in the practice of dentistry in Elizabeth City. He is a past vice-president of the State Dental Society.

Salem Grid Athletes Prepare For Opening Of Football Season

CHICK, GUTHERIE TO CLASH SEPT. 1

Rivals Who Fought To Draw Last Week To Battle 2-Hr. Limit

The center of wrestling activities in Youngstown will be shifted indoors when Promoter Al Zill presents another all-star show featuring widely known behemoths of the grunt and grapple racket at Idora park theater, Tuesday, September 1.

Elmer Guthrie, Oklahoma, and Bobby Chick, Houston, Tex., who recently battled to a sensational draw decision at Idora park stadium, will be featured in the main bout. Two other attractive matches will round out the card.

Guthrie and Chick are billed to clash in their second meeting for best two out of three falls over a two-hour limit. Their recent collision, which attracted many Salem addicts, was over the one-hour route.

25 MIDGETS REPORT FOR GRID TEAM

Twenty-five Salem midget grid stars reported for opening practice sessions held at Centennial park this week as preparations began for the organization of a bantam-weight football eleven here. The team will compete in the Ohio Bantamweight Football association.

The team will be backed and fully equipped by E. C. Sheen of the Sheen Service Station, North Lincoln ave. All boys under 16 years of age and who weigh not more than 113 pounds are eligible for the team.

Practices will be held daily at Centennial park from 9 to 11 a. m. J. M. Kelley and Russell Stallsmith are in charge of the team.

Arrangements are being made by the coaches to obtain either the Kent Bearcats of the Cleveland Parmadale school team for the opening game under the floodlights of Reilly athletic stadium.

Ernie Schaaf Meets Giant In New York

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Ponderous but powerful pugilism is in order at Ebbets field tonight, as Victorio Campolo, the huge Argentine, meets Ernie Schaaf, a slightly smaller battler from Boston, over the 12 round route. Tonight's bout probably will decide for Campolo whether his aspirations to advance as a heavyweight contender will continue or be snuffed out.

The Argentine is facing one of the strongest men he ever has met in the ring. Campolo is six feet, seven inches in height and weighs 240 pounds. Schaaf is well over the 200 pound mark and has, in addition, blossomed out as a strong puncher in his recent bouts. They have displayed one fact in common. Neither has shown much ability to think quickly in a crisis. Schaaf was a 2 to 1 favorite.

COLONIALS HIT HARD TO WIN 10-3 TUSSLE FROM EDISON OUTFIT

Sandwich shoppe Combine Pounds Christen for Twelve Safeties

Pounding Lee Christen, the league's leading hurler for 12 safeties, the Colonial Sandwich Shoppe team registered a 10-3 decision over the Ohio Edison outfit at Centennial park field Tuesday, advancing into a tie for second place, one-half game behind first place.

Take Early Lead
The Freebooters took a three-run lead in the first inning then clinched matters by scoring six runs on three hits, a walk and three errors, in the fourth.

The defeat practically eliminated the power tossers from the race for the second half championship while in winning the Colonials continued as an outstanding threat for the pace-making post now held by the Mullins Foremen's club and Salem Hardware.

George McFeely hurled the victory for the Colonials, his wildness permitting the opposition to score two runs in the second. After that frame he settled down and, with good support, blanked the powermen the rest of the way.

Next Champ?

Will Charley Retzlaff (above), former Minnesota farmer, be the next to wear the heavyweight championship crown? Many of the leading fight experts, having seen Charley knocking out formidable opponents, are of that opinion. Retzlaff has been fighting professionally for two years and is hailed as the best heavyweight prospect to come up from the hinterlands in a decade.

The Community Service Station team hit Jeffries hard enough to pile up seven runs in three innings and won a 7-4 verdict over the Cox Studios in yesterday's game.

To Honor Rockne on Scene of Triumphs

Designed to perpetuate the memory of the greatest football coach of all time, this memorial field house is to be erected on the campus of Notre Dame University, on the site of the old Cartier Athletic Field where Knute Rockne molded some of the greatest teams in history. The plans have been approved by the Rockne Memorial Association and a nation-wide campaign to raise one million dollars will be conducted in the fall. Above is the architect's drawing of the memorial. Rockne, the "Wizard of South Bend," is in inset.

Quakers to Hold Camp at Dunn Eden; Stone to Arrive Here Soon

The color and glamour of footballdom, entertainment supreme for millions of sport fans throughout the United States, will be welcomed in American athletic ranks within but a few weeks now and already athletes are warping to the task of preparing for gruelling gridiron campaigns that the month of September will inaugurate.

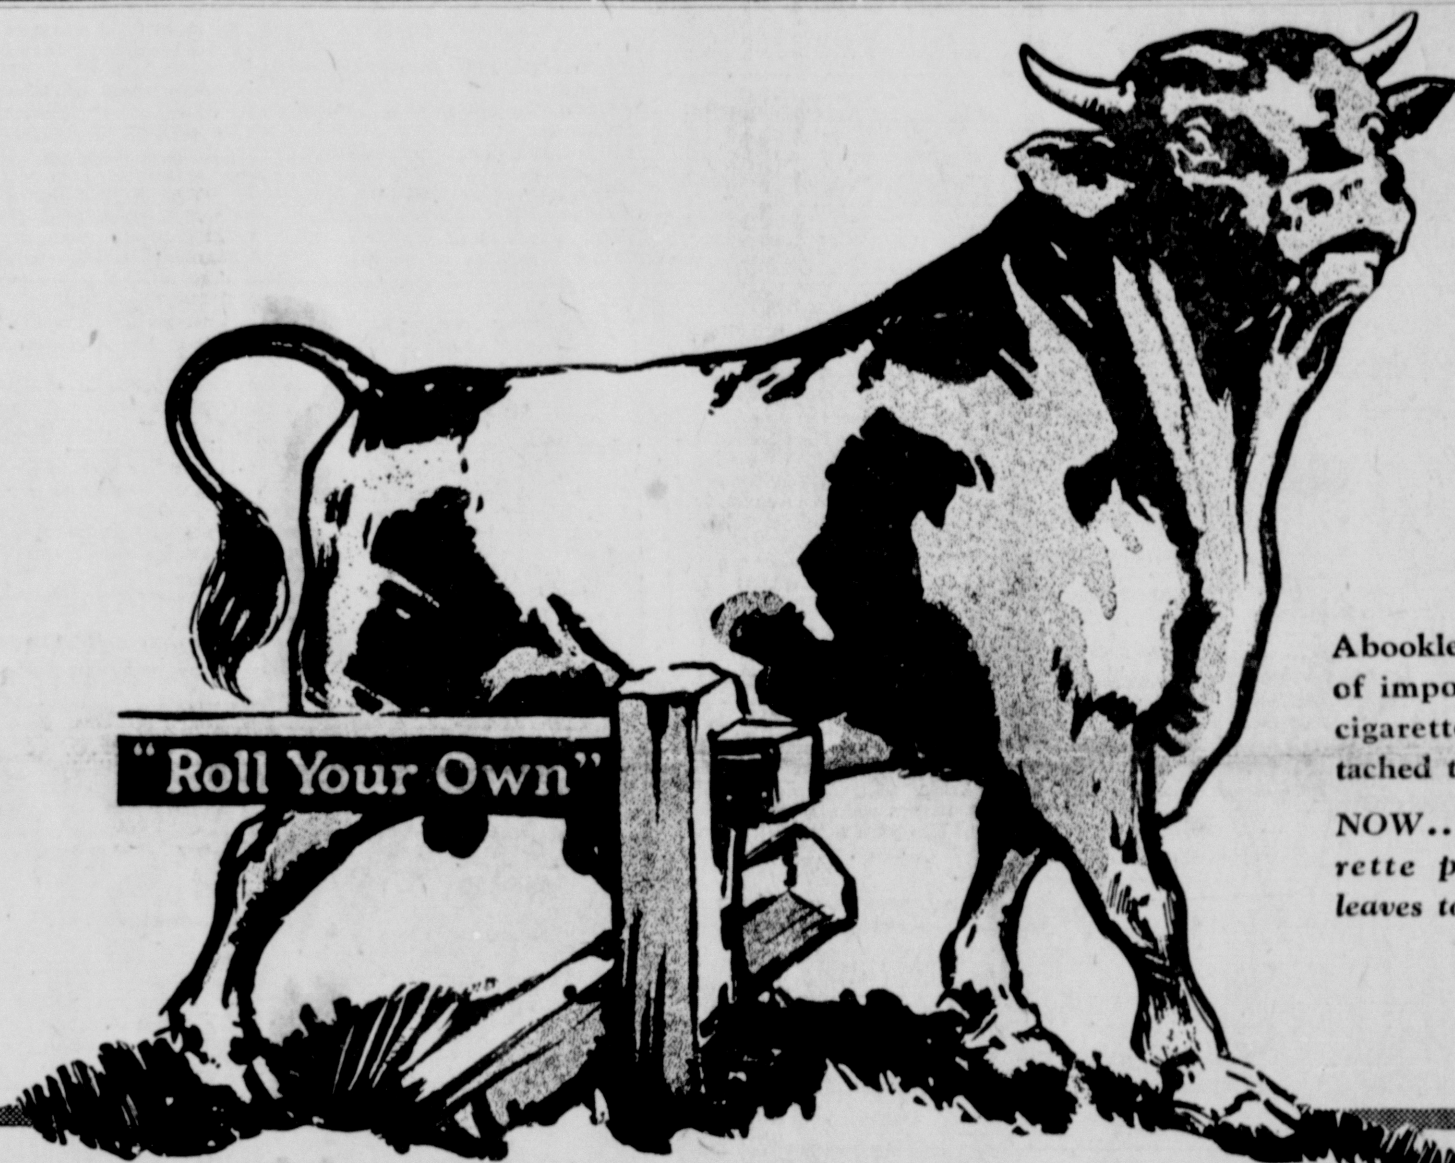

Tuesday, September 1, will in all probability mark the opening of gridiron activities for lads who will represent the Red and Black of Salem High in the coming fall. Plans are being arranged for a pre-season training camp at Dunn Eden lake with more than 50 candidates for varsity honors being expected.

Stone Arranges Plans
Coach Floyd W. Stone, recently returned from Canada where he spent part of the summer vacation, is expected to begin active preparations for the coming grid season before the opening of school on Monday, September 14. If plans for the camp materialize Stone will have at least three weeks with which to work his athletes into condition for the opening conflict with Cantor McKinley High.

Great importance is connected by the city's fandom with the coming fall. Football is the all important sport with hundreds here. Depressions may come and go, but few care as long as the Quaker Citizens march through another football schedule with success equal to that of the past two seasons. A colorful schedule of contests is arranged for fandom and a mighty representation of spectators is anticipated for contests, both at home and on foreign fields.

Graduation Takes Stars
Graduation took from the Stonemen a number of outstanding stars—William Smith, August Corso, Harold Hackett, Michael Corso, Paul Sartick, George Ballantine, Henry Reese, Lawrence Weigand and others—but a fine collection of veterans will return as a nucleus for Stone's 1931 gridiron edition. Jack Carpenter, John French, Ed Beck, Bill Corso, Jim Corso, Gordon Keyes, Purn Sidinger, Lorin Battin

Yankee Veteran Hurls 1st Shutout for McCarthy Crew; Wins, 8-0

Having settled the question of team supremacy in the two major leagues, a new scheme is being used to interest fans. They're putting on track meets, and the possibilities are limitless.

Chapman Races Reynolds
When Ben Chapman, Yankee speedster, outpaced Carl Reynolds, of the White Sox, in a special match race before yesterday's tilt at Chicago, something undoubtedly was started.

Chapman, seeking more sprinters to conquer, already has issued a defy to any player in the American league for a 100-yard match race, and they're talking of pitting him against the National league's champion as a feature to the approaching world series.

After beating Reynolds by some four yards in their special dash, Chapman utilized his speed in the game that followed to steal his fifteenth and fifty-first bases of the year.

Yankees Win Shutout
The Yankees won, incidentally, 8 to 0, behind Herb Pennock's six-hit pitching. It was the first shutout credited to the McCarthyhymen this season.

Eddie Rommel hurled the Athletics to a 4 to 1 victory over the St. Louis Browns, allowing only six hits along the way. The Washington Senators, so far back now it scarcely matters, thumped the Detroit Tigers, 5 to 1.

The Giants trimmed the Chicago Cubs twice, 5 to 3, and 7 to 1, stretching their lead over the Hornsby clan to five games. Carl Hubbell's five-hit pitching featured the first. Jim Chaplin stopped the visitors in the second, Ralston Hemmley's homer depriving him of a shutout.

The Robins divided a pair with the Pittsburgh Pirates. A four-run spurge off Watson Clark in the eighth inning gave the Pirates the opener, 5 to 3. Fred Heimach squared matters by holding them to three hits and winning the nightcap 5 to 0. Cincinnati and Philadelphia took turns applying the whitewash, the Reds winning the first, 8 to 0, and the Phils taking the second, 1 to 0.

Socks Seibold held the Cardinals scoreless for eight innings, but they nicked him for one to tie the score in the ninth and then collected three more in the tenth to defeat the Boston Braves, 4 to 1.

Quakers To Hold Camp

and Norman Early are some of the 1931 talented stars available this year.

In three seasons Quaker grid eleven have amassed the reputable record of 28 victories, three defeats and three no-decision contests. Last year out of 11 games played, eight were won, one lost and two were tied. The year before, 1929, a record of 11 straight victories was rung up by the team while in 1928, Stone's first year here, nine games were won against only two defeats.

Lewis Assists Stone

Stone will, in attempting to equal or surpass the marks of the past three years, again be assisted by Frank P. Lewis, now vacationing in his home state, Iowa.

Much attention will also be devoted by fans here to the fate of the 1931 Ohio State university team, where one of the city's sons, Sam S. Willaman, is director of football coaching activities. Again hit hard by graduation, ineligibility of several prospective under-graduate stars and other fateful circumstances, Willaman starts the season facing what is probably the toughest schedule ever arranged for the Scarlet and Gray.

At Mount Union Coach John Thorpe is anything but over-optimistic although the greater part of the last year's machine will again be in action. The University of Pittsburgh Panthers seek to establish themselves as national champions with five scintillating veterans back while Carnegie Tech boasts a very good opportunity of out-shining their rival Pittsburghers.

County Schools Hopeful

Columbiana county schools, hopeful of imposing on the Red and Black's record of victories in county competition, will soon be turning the spotlight on activities of the greensward. There will be the Northeastern Ohio Big Ten Athletic association, the Ohio Bantam-weight league, in which Salem has a team backed by Edgar C. Sheen, and many other colorful attractions. Yea, verily, it is destined to be one grand season.

Try This One at Home

If you feel that, as a novice, you'd land in the hospital after trying such a back jack-knife as this beautiful one, maybe you'd better not try it, after all. You probably have small chance, anyway, of equaling the grace of Dick Degener, former University of Michigan diver, as he practices for the forthcoming 1932 Olympic Game tryouts. If Dick's as consistently good as this dive would indicate, he'll be among the springboard artists upholding U. S. laurels.

Gunboat "Steals" Show

ALBANY, N. Y.—Gunboat Smith, old time boxer and now a motion picture actor and wrestling referee, "stole" a wrestling show here the other night. Many times Smith was on the verge of landing that once-famous right of his on the wrestlers when they ignored his orders, much to the amusement of the fans. Drawing back his fist was enough to make them mind, however.

New Code of Business Ethics Drafted by Western Chamber

(By International News Service)
 SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 26—A new buying and selling code has been submitted to the business interests by the California State Chamber of Commerce.

The ten points of the Code are as follows:

- To buy and sell on the basis of value, recognizing that value represents that combination of quality, service and price which assures greatest ultimate economy to the user.
- To respect our obligations and neither expressly nor impliedly to promise a performance which we cannot reasonably expect to fulfill.
- To avoid misrepresentation and sharp practice in our purchases and sales, recognizing that permanent business relations can be maintained only on a structure of honesty and fair dealing.
- To be courteous and considerate to those with whom we deal, to be prompt and business-like in our appointments, and to carry on negotiations with all reasonable expedition so as to avoid trespassing on the rights of others or the time of buyers and salesmen.
- To avoid statements tending to injure or discredit a legitimate competitor, and to divulge no information acquired in confidence with the intent of giving or receiving an unfair advantage in a competitive business transaction.
- To strive for simplification and standardization within the bounds of utility and industrial economy, and to further the development of products and methods which will improve industrial efficiency.
- To recognize that character is the greatest asset in business; to give it major consideration in the selection of customers and source of supply.
- To adjust claims and settle disputes on the basis of facts and fairness; to submit the facts to arbitration if a mutual agreement cannot be reached, to abide by the decision of the arbiters and to resort to legal measures in commercial disputes only when the preceding courses prove ineffective.

9. To provide or accept no gifts or entertainment in the guise of sales expense, where the intent or effect is to unduly prejudice the recipient in favor of the donor as against legitimate competitors.

10. To give or receive no bribes, in the form of money or otherwise, in any commercial transaction, and to expose commercial bribery wherever encountered, for the purpose of maintaining the highest standard of ethics in industry.

TESTS DELAYING AKRON'S FLIGHT

Dirigible Not Expected To Take to Air Until Sept. 5

AKRON, Aug. 26.—Repairs necessitated by the straining of parts of the navy dirigible Akron, during strength tests, will keep the big ship out of the air until Sept. 5, Hugh Allen, public relations director of the Goodyear Zeppelin company announced today.

The first flights had been scheduled for next week, but due to the strength tests which have been made by naval officers, the flights have been postponed for at least a week.

Allen said the strain occurred during overload tests of the framework and that it was found advisable to strengthen the structure at several points. "When completed still more rigid tests will be applied at such points," he declared.

Commander Garland Fulton who was here conferring with Goodyear Zeppelin officials on the matter yesterday left last night for Washington to report to the Navy department.

Concerning tests already made, Allen said:

"Of the 19 major tests made after the ship had been inflated 12 have been completed, including the important hogging and sagging tests which showed remarkable general strength in the ship's structure itself.

"Other successful tests completed include those of the strength of the airplane compartment, rudders and elevators, the fire extinguishing system, electrical bonding and tests of superheat meters.

THE HOME KITCHEN

Fish Cakes or Fish Balls?

As far as flavor is concerned, fish balls and fish cakes are quite alike. But there is a good deal of difference in the cooking process. Fish cakes can be sauteed quickly in fat or butter, but the fish balls require deep fat frying—rather a troublesome process in warm weather. Some, however, do prefer the latter, claiming that a lighter texture emerges from the deep fat frying process, but this is a matter of personal taste. Fish cakes can be quite as light if properly prepared.

Fish Cake Mixture (fresh fish)

2 cupfuls any boned raw fish
2 cups diced, raw potatoes
1 egg
1 tablespoon butter
salt, pepper.

Place the diced raw potatoes and fish in a saucepan with water to cover and cook for 20 to 30 minutes, until fish is tender. Drain off the water and mash together fish and potatoes, add well-beaten egg, butter and seasoning and set aside to cool. When cold form into little flat cakes and saute in a little butter.

Fish Cakes—Salt Fish

2 cupfuls salt cod or other fish
2 cupfuls mashed potatoes
1 egg
3/4 cup milk
1 tablespoon butter
dash of pepper.

Place salt fish in cold water and simmer until it reaches boiling point, then drain, flake, cover with cold water and simmer for 10 minutes, but do not boil. Mix with hot mashed potatoes, melted butter, beaten egg and seasoning and milk. Form into cakes, dip in flour and saute in a little butter. Or roll into balls, cover with fine breadcrumbs and fry in deep fat. Serve with chili sauce and grated horseradish.

HARPER, Kan.—Bert Cristes and Dewey Calton, who have farms on a county line, evaded arrest on charges of the prohibition law by stepping over the county line in either direction when the Harper and Sumner sheriffs called. Recently the sheriffs "got together" and met Cristes and Calton at the line, declared "there'll be no sidestepping the issue now" and lodged them in jail.

CROSS-CONTINENT RECORD SHATTERED BY NEW PLYMOUTH

San Francisco to New York and return in 132 hours—

On this record-breaking trip a New Plymouth Sedan, standard in every detail, covered 6287 miles at an average speed of 47.52 miles per hour and more than 1140 miles a day.

This smashed the existing two-way transcontinental mark, set between Los Angeles and New York, by 9 1/2 hours—the San Francisco-New York record by nearly 36 hours.

These marks were formerly held by cars costing several times the Plymouth price.

No greater example can be given of the astounding ruggedness, endurance and stamina of the New Plymouth. No finer proof can be offered of its performance, its power, its handling ease, its safety and its roadability.

Take a ride in the New Plymouth. Experience for yourself the performance which made this phenomenal record possible.

Convenient Door Shelving

One of the thrills reserved for the crowded apartment dweller is the discovery of more space that can be put to good use. It may have seemed for a long time that every available inch was being occupied. Then, one day, behold a new bright idea! A little built-in, and there's a set of shelves, of a much-needed cupboard, or more perfectly good storage space.

One unique idea slowly growing in favor, especially with those who never have enough shelf and closet room, is the attachable door shelving. It consists of a set of narrow shelves fastened to the inside of the door. They are not more than 5 inches wide and run almost across the door. A rim at the front holds articles in place, and for extra neatness, two doors enclose the shelves within.

The Shelved Door

The advantage of this arrangement is obvious. Space is provided thus for neat arrangement of small articles, yet no other areas are invaded. When the door shuts, shelves are out of sight, and as they are so narrow they hardly touch the clothes that may be hanging within the closet.

As for usefulness, they are a god-send to the household forever in need of more space to store little things. The shelved door in the man's room will hold his socks, handkerchiefs, buttons, and miscellaneous small items. In the children's room these shelves can hold small items of clothing, or little toys and on the topmost shelves, beyond reach of the infant fingers, may be stored the first-aid articles.

For the woman's room the shelved door has many uses. Accessories of dress—gloves, handkerchief, hose, toilet articles. One business woman, keeping house in a one-room apartment, has transformed the shelved door into a virtual dressing table by inserting a small mirror at the back.

"I'm older than you think I am . . .

"BUT I remember some of the things that I heard when I was younger.

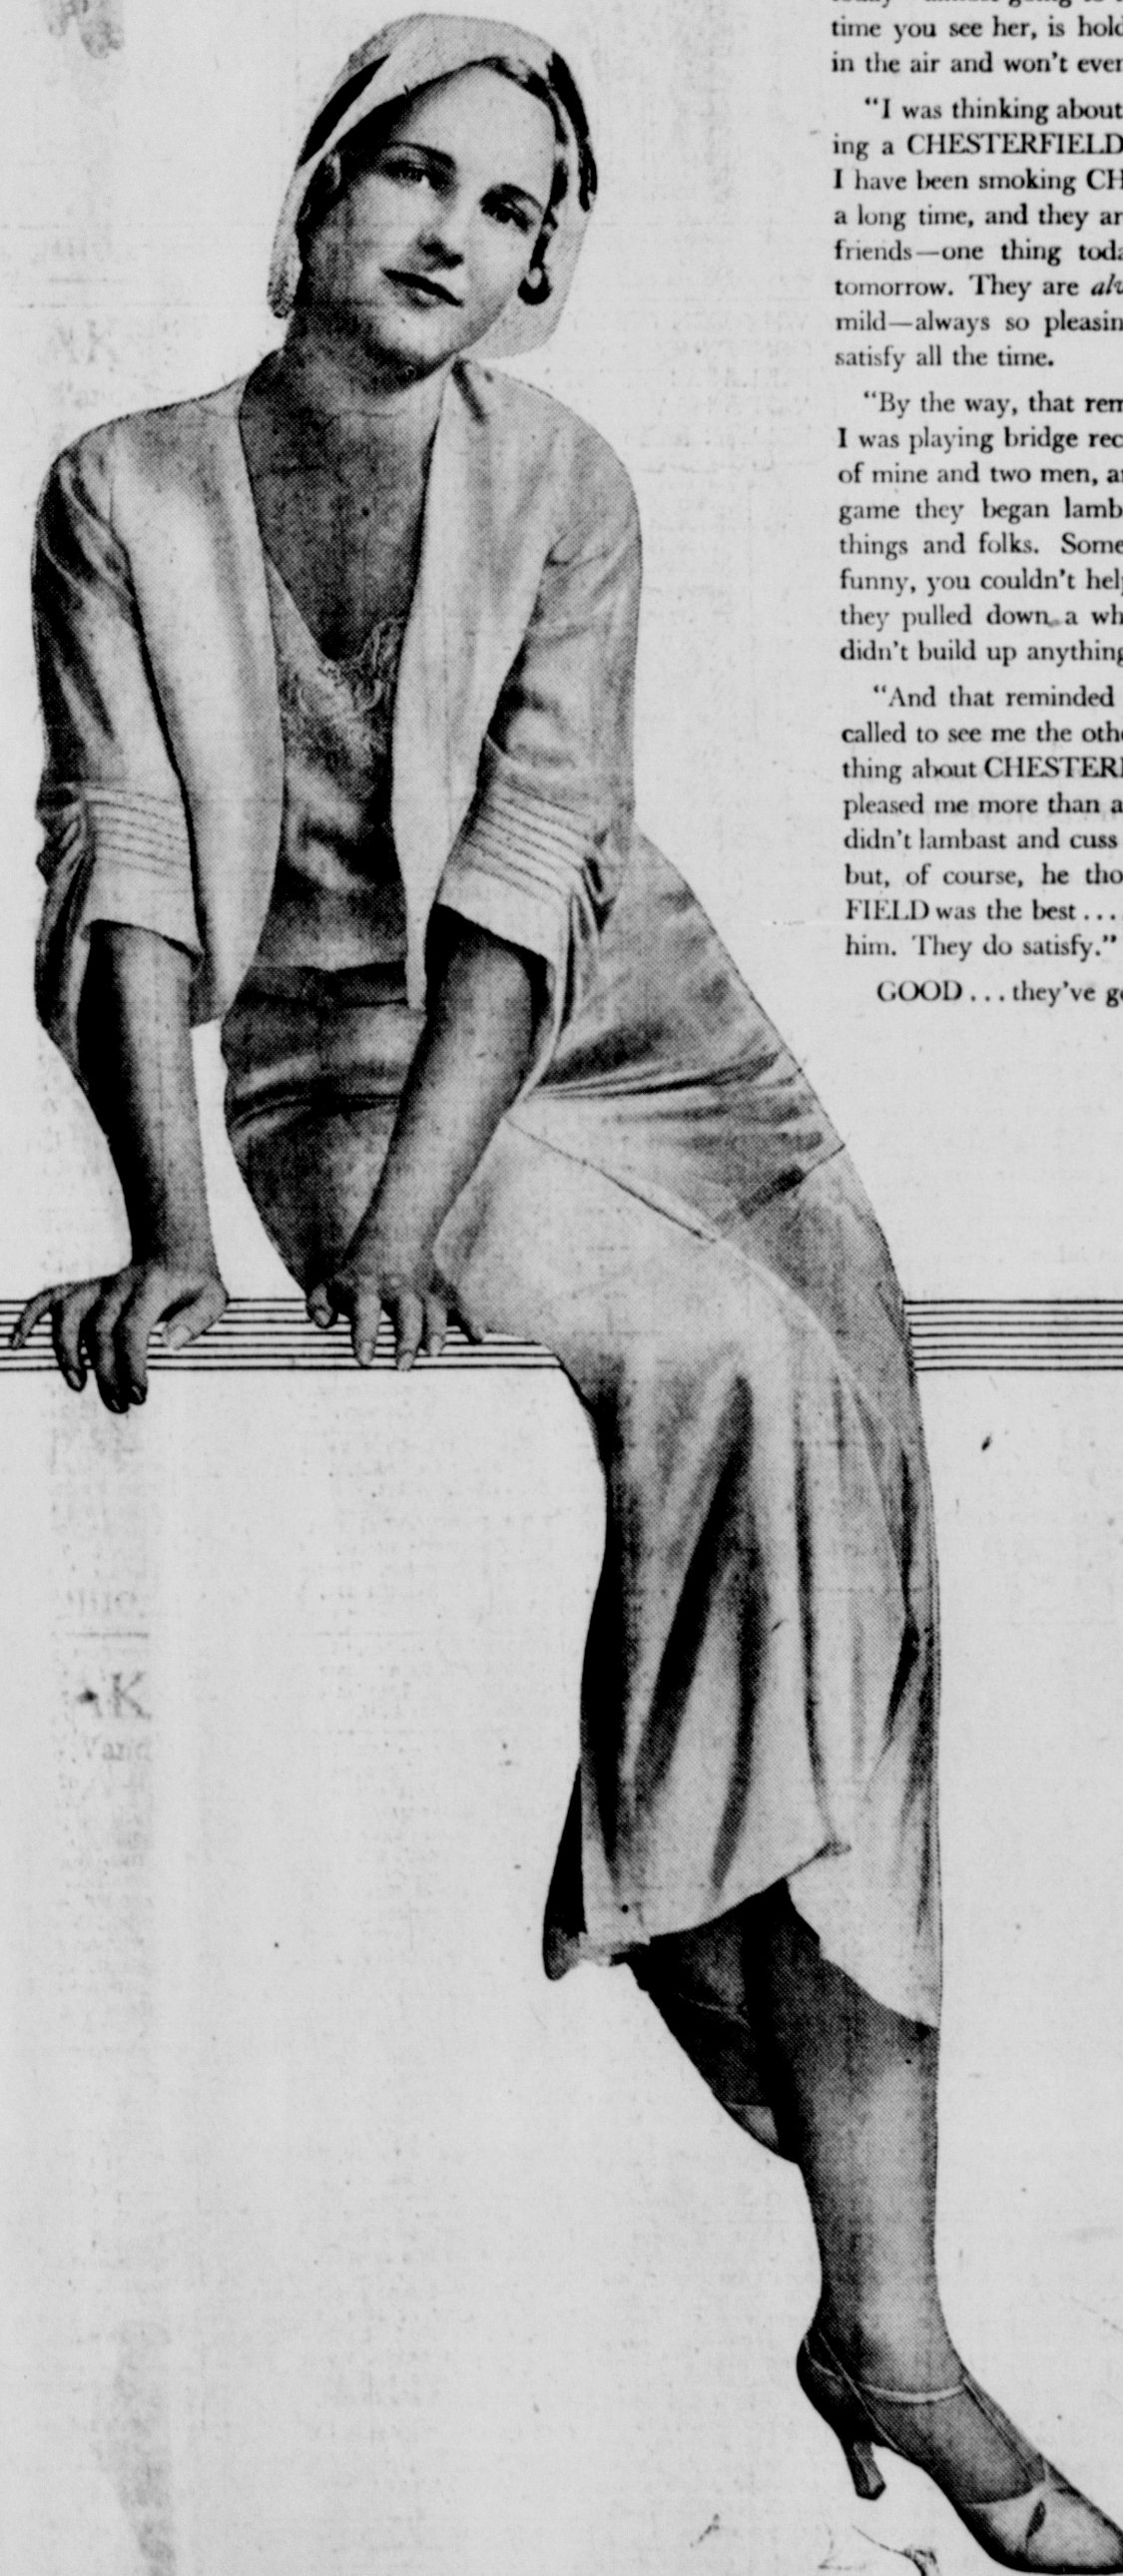

"I was told to watch out for one of those so-called friends who is so mighty glad to see you today—almost going to hug you; and the next time you see her, is holding her head high up in the air and won't even speak to you.

"I was thinking about this while I was enjoying a CHESTERFIELD cigarette. You know, I have been smoking CHESTERFIELDS quite a long time, and they are not like some of our friends—one thing today and another thing tomorrow. They are always the same—always mild—always so pleasing in taste. They just satisfy all the time.

"By the way, that reminds me of something. I was playing bridge recently with a girl friend of mine and two men, and after we finished the game they began lambasting a whole lot of things and folks. Some of the talk was right funny, you couldn't help laughing; but, really, they pulled down a whole lot of things, and didn't build up anything.

"And that reminded me of a salesman who called to see me the other day to tell me something about CHESTERFIELD. The thing that pleased me more than anything else was that he didn't lambast and cuss out any other cigarette; but, of course, he thought that CHESTERFIELD was the best . . . And I rather agree with him. They do satisfy."

GOOD . . . they've got to be good!
